South Suburban Parks and Recreation Seeks Nominations for Board of Directors Positions

South Suburban Park and Recreation District is accepting nominations for three Board of Directors positions from qualified members of the community. A South Suburban Board of Directors election for three director positions will be held on Tues., May 6, 2014.

Interested candidates must be a registered voter in Colorado. They must be either a resident of the District for at least 30 days, or an owner or a spouse of an owner of taxable real property or personal property situated in the District.

A self-nomination and acceptance form must be filed with the District on or before 5 pm, on Feb. 28, 2014 for inclusion on the ballot. Forms and more information about the election are available from Executive Director David Lorenz, or Deanna Heyn, designated elected official, South Suburban Park and Recreation District, 6631 S. University Blvd., Centennial, 303-798-5131.

The five-member, board of directors is elected at large to four-year terms, on a non-partisan basis. The Board of Directors meets on the second and fourth Wed. evening of each month at Goodson Recreation Center, 6315 S. University Blvd., in Centennial. Additional study sessions or special meetings are called as needed. The Directors are compensated up to $1,600 per year.

Current board members include John Ostermiller, Susan Rosser, Michael Anderson, Pamela Eller and Scott LaBrash.

Board Members John Ostermiller, Michael Anderson, and Pamela Eller are eligible for reelection in May 2014. Scott LaBrash is eligible for reelection in May 2016.
